

Grow Native Plants in Your Yard

Alison Meyer photo

Native Grasses & Forbs in the Landscape

Thursday, April 15, 7 pm, 1912 Center Great Room

Kathy Hutton of Plants of the Wild will offer a presentation on the native plants that are most available & easiest to grow in low-maintenance, water conserving yards, while focusing on how these species behave in naturalized home landscapes. Kathy will also host a Plants of the Wild visit on June 11, during the annual statewide INPS meeting at Heyburn State Park.

Cricket's Garden Native Wildflower Nursery

Saturday, April 24, 1 pm, Meet at Eastside Marketplace

Christine Nauman of Cricket's Garden will give a talk about the most suitable native wildflowers for regional propagation & cultivation. Providing a plant list & site map, Christine will lead a tour of her Moscow backyard business, explaining how to collect & grow native wildflowers & integrate them into home landscapes. Native seedlings will be available for order or purchase.

Visit www.whitepineinps.org for more information

Co-sponsored by the Idaho Native Plant Society White Pine Chapter & Palouse Prairie Foundation